

Andrew Jackson to William Charles Cole Claiborne,
February 8, 1815, from Correspondence of Andrew
Jackson. Edited by John Spencer Bassett.

TO GOVERNOR CLAIBORNE.

New Orleans, February 8, 1815.

Sir: The Legislature not having furnished me, yet, with the testimony taken by the Committee appointed to enquire into the causes which gave rise to communications charging them with treasonable designs, I must again direct your attention to that subject, and ask that you will use your efforts to have that testimony forwarded as soon as practicable. You will perceive that my motives for thus urging this subject are that I may enter upon the enquiry myself if the Legislature shall persist in withholdg the result of their own inquir[i]es.

I am very respectfully yr. obt st.
